Planning assumptions and scope of the HRP

Recommended length: 3 pages

Planning assumptions

Summarize the planning assumptions that inform the scope of the HRP, based on the likely evolution of the humanitarian situation outlined in the HNO (chapter 2). Consider including references to:

- expected trends in context during the HRP period;
- expected evolution of needs, including those that are currently less severe but could deteriorate during the HRP period;
- key risks outlined in the HNO and their expected impact on the response (timing and number of people estimated to be affected/in need).

Scope of the HRP

Building on your planning assumptions, summarize the scope of the HRP, explain its strategic priorities and targeting considerations by referencing:

- HNO findings on the severity, magnitude, and underlying causes of humanitarian needs; barriers to access; and the most critical protection risks;
- priority needs as expressed by affected communities and people;
- the risks identified in the HNO that will be addressed by the HRP and their level of expected impact (number of people estimated to be affected/in need), and the risks that will remain outside the scope of the HRP.

Visuals

- Table of planning assumptions (including identified risks which will be addressed as part of the HRP response, with estimations for number of people affected, to be targeted and expected timing for each risk).

Targeting considerations

Within the defined scope of the HRP, present the following:

- Population groups and sub-groups and locations targeted for response.
- Summarize or visualize complementarity with Red Cross/ Red Crescent plans, development assistance frameworks, and government plans, highlighting the linkages across humanitarian- development-peace collaboration.
- Highlight the rationale, indicating programmatic response activities for targeted sub-groups based on the HNO. Specify in each case the dimensions of age and sex (women, men, girls, and boys), disability, as well as other diversity and vulnerability characteristics according to the context, or 'reaching the furthest left behind';
- Geographic locations targeted for response, as informed by severity analysis and the scope/gaps of ongoing response efforts.

Visuals

- Planning assumptions: (priority) locations targeted by HRP compared to HNO inter-sector severity of needs
- Planned HRP project coverage/targeting

Quality indicators

- The HRP prioritizes specific population groups for humanitarian response.
- The HRP defines geographic priorities for the response.

Strategic objectives, specific objective and response approach

Recommended length: 3 pages

Provide a crisp summary for each of the 3-4 strategic objectives of the HRP.

Consider including:

- an overview of coordinated response approaches, targeted population groups (if applicable) and geographical areas, the rationale for the difference between the number of people in need identified in the HNO and the number of people targeted in the HRP.
- Refer to the HNO analysis and the scope of the HRP.
- Explain how the strategic objectives are people-centred.

Present 2-3 specific objectives for each strategic objective. Specific objectives should detail the intermediate results necessary to achieve the overall strategic objectives.

For each specific objective, describe the coordinated/multi-sector response approach required to deliver results.

- Summarize elements of the response analysis process, including the appropriateness, relevance and feasibility of planned interventions and response modalities.
- Refer to lessons from past responses and planned adjustments to ensure response readiness, including preparedness measures for anticipated future shocks and risks.

Highlight acute, prioritised protection risks in the strategic and/or specific objectives and throughout the HRP.

- Articulate how the response will contribute to reducing priority protection risks.
- Explain the alignment of strategic and specific objectives with the HCT protection strategy.
- Use protection mainstreaming and “do no harm” principles to enhance quality and safe programming.

- Determine which interventions are time-critical and the sequencing of planned interventions. Consider:
 - Mapping planned HRP activities on a crisis and response timeline, indicating seasonal patterns and/or any anticipated shocks/risks which have been agreed as falling within the scope of the HRP response.
 - And/or a visualization of sequencing of responses to show that time-critical interventions take place first, and articulating responses among themselves so that interventions that require others to be implemented first or alongside, are planned in a complementary or overlapping manner. This timeline can also indicate brief descriptions and costs consolidated across sectors/clusters for response preparedness measures and/or anticipatory action approaches which are agreed ahead of specific anticipated shocks.

Summarize links and complementarity between the HRP and Red Cross/Red Crescent plans, Government frameworks and development assistance frameworks such as UNSDCFs.

- Explain any possible linkages with collective outcomes as part of the humanitarian-development nexus, and, where appropriate, peace nexus.
- Articulate ongoing or planned advocacy for complementary coverage of populations and needs by other actors.

Explain which factors/causes of humanitarian conditions were targeted for the response and why and which ones are not targeted and why.

- Outline how appropriateness, relevance and feasibility of various interventions and intervention modalities were considered.

Quality indicators

The HRP:

- provides a coherent results chain, addressing priority needs and humanitarian conditions.
- relates to and complements other relevant plans.
- is based on a robust needs assessment/ analysis, the HRP reports key needs as well as factors that drive needs and humanitarian conditions.
- explains the timing of the planned response.
- addresses protection concerns.
- presents appropriate response options and modalities based on a response analysis.

Costing methodology

Recommended length: 2 pages

- Document what costing methodology was used to cost the response.
- Summarize the reasoning and metrics behind cost estimations, whether based on units/activities, projects, or both, to explain increases or decreases from one planning cycle to the next.
- For example: particular features of the operating environment, evolution of humanitarian needs, changes in target populations, selection of appropriate response modalities, logistics, etc.
- For project-costed HRP's provide information on the project submission and vetting process.
- For unit-costed HRP's present data and methodology used to estimate costs.

Quality indicator

The HRP summarizes the reasoning and metrics behind cost estimates.

Operational capacity and access

Recommended length: 2 pages

Provide an overview of operational capacity and humanitarian access dynamics:

- Reference section 1.2 Shocks and Impact of the Crisis of the HNO, if an analysis on reduction in access was already included (avoid repetition).
- Document operational considerations that can affect the delivery of the response, particularly access issues and the operational response capacity based on lessons learned from past responses.
- Provide a shared analysis of humanitarian access constraints and how it might affect the implementation of planned activities.
- Consider the availability and capacities of local implementing partners, government and non-traditional actors and how they will contribute or complement the planned response.
- Document mitigation measures to address operational and access issues.
- Present a breakdown of the numbers of organisations participating in the HRP, including the number of local partners.
- Visuals can include access severity mapping, tables presenting partners by sector, type and response reach under previous HRP, a breakdown of the numbers of organisations participating in the HRP, a map with operational presence/hubs at geographic level, etc. Any mapping of operational presence should ideally be compared to something, e.g. need severity, intended HRP targets.

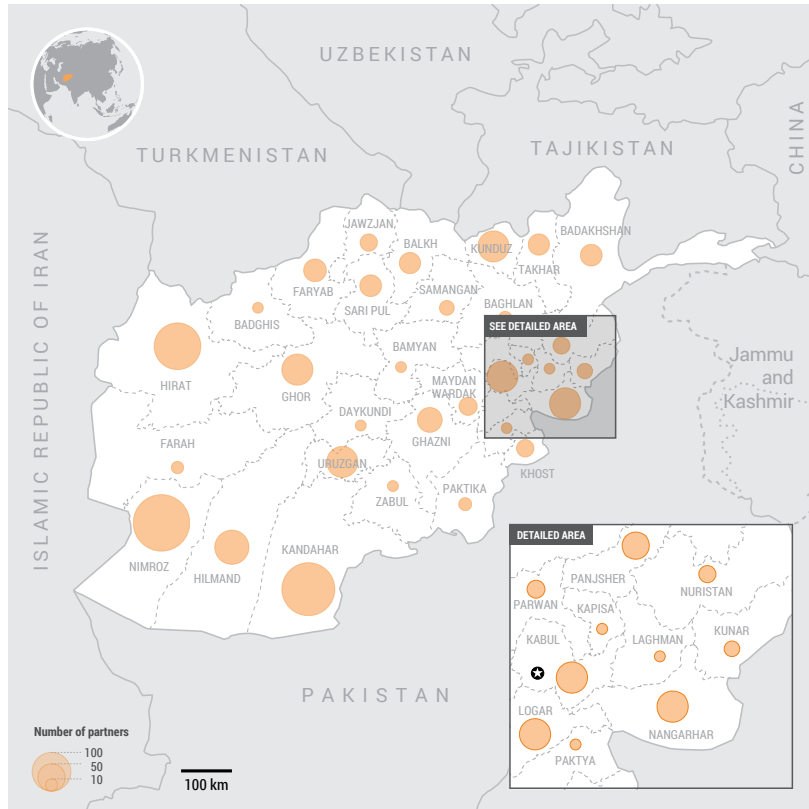

Quality indicators

- The HRP demonstrates how lessons learned from past responses have influenced planning
- The HRP includes planning assumptions and addresses risks and operational constraints potentially affecting the delivery of the response.

Accountability to affected populations

Recommended length: ½ page

Describe the collective approach to Accountability to Affected Populations (AAP):

- Summarize the collective approach to engaging with affected people and being accountable, with consideration to community engagement, participation, feedback and complaints.
- Document how affected people were consulted during the HRP planning process and whether consultations and engagement with affected populations considered diversity characteristics such as age, sex and disability.
- Document how continued engagement will be coordinated throughout the response and how information from the community will be used to adapt the response if necessary.
- Demonstrate how the communication is flowing back to the communities regarding their inputs and feedback.
- Visualise key information in infographics (for example, community engagement channels, priority needs as expressed by populations and how the HRP addresses these).

Country teams are encouraged to also report challenges and barriers and limitations.

Quality indicator

- The HRP outlines a joint approach to AAP.

Consolidated overview on the use of multi-purpose cash

OPTIONAL

Recommended length: 1 page

This section describes the use of multi-purpose cash (MPC). Information on cash and voucher assistance should be integrated as indicated elsewhere throughout the document.

- Consider appropriateness, feasibility and relevance of multi-purpose cash as a response option as part of the overall response analysis detailed in chapter 1.2 (see additional guidance on appropriateness and feasibility here) and highlight in particular preferences of affected populations where relevant. If MPC is deemed not appropriate or feasible, provide a brief explanation in annex 5.1. If MPC is feasible it should be reflected within this section in line with the guidance provided below.
- Determine how the use of multi-purpose cash will be coordinated and will contribute to inter- and multi-sectoral and sectoral response approaches and modalities.
- Consider how planned MPC and social protection assistance complements each other.

Based on above considerations as part of the response analysis document:

- Reflect considerations on appropriateness, relevance feasibility during the implementation timeframe of the HRP;
- How the use of multi-purpose cash is coordinated and might interface with other sectorally or multi- sectorally coordinated modalities;
- If applicable, add a section that presents the use of multi-purpose cash approaches across all strategic objectives;
- Applicable standards and calculations (including calculation of Minimum Expenditure Basket);
- Consolidated financial requirements disaggregated by multi-purpose cash portion (i.e. X % of total requirements is MPC) and targeting strategy/population;
- Indicate key partners involved in coordinated use of multi-purpose cash.

Humanitarian Programme Cycle timeline

Monitoring approach

Summarize what monitoring activities will be conducted, by whom, when and how:

- Explain how monitoring responsibilities are shared between actors and clusters;
- Describe how the opinions of affected people on the response will be collected;
- Articulate how the measured progress and achievements will be communicated to various audiences, including people targeted, authorities, the humanitarian community, donors, media and the general public.

Monitoring framework

Provide a link to the HRP monitoring framework on Humanitarian Action, for access to live data on results measured against indicators (there is no need to include it as an annex). The monitoring framework includes the complete set of indicators attached to strategic objectives, specific objectives, cluster objectives and cluster activities.

Visuals

Present a timeline detailing the schedule of reporting products planned for release during the year. Consider including the following:

- Real-time data available online on Humanitarian Action;
- Summarized data presented graphically on a dashboard;
- Detailed data and analysis presented in a progress report;
- Achievements and analysis in a year-end report.

Provide a narrative on sectoral responses, indicating how these contribute to the collective response to achieve the strategic objectives of the HRP. The needs analysis provided in the sector/cluster chapters of the HNO should not be repeated in the HRP.

Objectives

- Present sectoral objectives and indicate their links to HRP specific objectives.

Response

- Indicate if the sector response is integrated within a multi-sectoral response.
- Indicate prioritization of the response and geographical focus. Explain which response modalities (cash, in-kind, services) will be used for the response, and their rationale. Highlight people-centred approaches and contributions to collective outcomes.

Financial requirements

- Present the method used to estimate sector financial requirements.
- Provide a short description of the main cost drivers (i.e. particular features of the operating environment, target population, needs, or appropriate response modalities).

Monitoring

Part 4: Refugee Response Plan

Recommended length: 3 pages

Visuals

- Indicate the number of people targeted (which may be the same if based on status and not on needs) for the refugee response chapter, disaggregated by sex, age and disability. Provide additional disaggregation by population group if relevant. Indicate the financial requirements, number of operational partners, and number of projects (if applicable).
- Include a visual that overlays on a map the number of people in need and people targeted, at the same administrative level.

Narrative

Provide a narrative on the response, indicating how it contributes to the collective response to achieve the strategic objectives of the HRP. The needs analysis provided in the HNO should not be repeated in the HRP.

Objectives

Present RRP strategic objectives (and, if relevant, indicate their links to HRP specific objectives). For countries that have developed a Country RRP or that are covered under a Regional RRP, ensure alignment of this chapter with these Plans (strategy and objectives, people targeted and financial requirements).

Response Strategy

Outlines the main elements of the Protection and Solutions Strategy. Indicate if the response is integrated within a multi-sectoral response and main priorities. Explain if the response is focus in certain geographic areas and which populations are targeted (i.e refugees and host communities). Explain which modalities (cash, in-kind, services) will be used for the response, and their rationale. Highlight people-centered approaches, cross-cutting priorities (PSEA, AAP, AGD, Climate, localization, etc.) and contributions to collective outcomes.

Financial requirements

Financial requirements are developed separately by UNHCR and partners. Total financial requirements can be described along with a short description of the main cost drivers (i.e. particular features of the operating environment, target population, needs, or appropriate response modalities).

Monitoring

Provide a link to an online response dashboard (if applicable).

Coordination and Partnerships

Explain the coordination system set up, number of partners and how they are involved and modalities of coordination and partnership.
